

Writing Center

The Writing Center provides support for writing assignments in any course at Lee College. Whether you're brainstorming ideas, organizing a paper, revising a draft, or polishing a final submission, writing tutors can work with you at every stage of the writing process. Writing Center sessions are collaborative. Your tutor will listen to your goals, ask questions, and offer feedback to help you make decisions about your writing. Your ideas and voice remain at the center of the process.

Writing tutors support students with:

- Understanding assignment requirements
- Brainstorming and developing ideas
- Organizing and strengthening your writing
- Paragraph development and thesis statements
- Grammar and sentence-level concerns
- MLA and APA formatting
- Works Cited pages and citations

To fit your schedule and learning preferences, the Writing Center offers three types of support:

- Face-to-Face Sessions — Meet with a writing tutor on campus for personalized feedback and guidance.
- Online Chat Sessions — Connect with a writing tutor remotely for a live, interactive session.
- Online Essay/Paper Submission — Submit your writing project online, and receive personalized written feedback from a writing tutor. Include your assignment instructions, goals, and any specific areas where you would like feedback. You do not need to be present for this session. Please allow 24 hours for your submission to be reviewed, and plan accordingly.
